

The City of Houston Declares Tejas Office Products Day

HOUSTON— Wednesday, October 16, 2013 —Tejas Office Products was honored yesterday when Houston Mayor Pro-Tem Council Member Ed Gonzalez presented a proclamation and Houston Mayor Annise Parker proclaimed the day as Tejas Office Products Day. City Council Member Melissa Noriega was instrumental in bringing about this recognition. Tejas Office Products was recognized for its various business achievements and continued commitment to the community.

The ceremony was held at 1:30 pm at Houston's City Hall and was broadcast live on the local municipal channel 16 HTV, Comcast 896 and online at HTV's website at <http://houstontx.swagit.com/play/09102013-584>.

“On behalf of the entire Tejas Office Products team, I thank Mayor Parker, Mayor Pro-Tem Gonzalez and the City of Houston for this honor,” Tejas Founder Lupe Fraga said. “I’m joined today by members of the Tejas leadership team, who have continued to be both leaders in business and the community. We pledge to continue our contributions to business and community alike.”

Tejas President Stephen M. Fraga was accompanied by his wife, Michelle, and their children Gregory and Stephen, Jr. Company founders Lupe and Irene Fraga, Michele R. Fraga and Alisa Fraga-Kautzmann, along with Alisa's husband Frank Kautzmann and their children Nicholas and Marissa, also attended the event.
